All we would need to do would be to put a new sign on the door. It is possible some older clients might object.
We are open to all accomadate all people, regardless of personal expression.
Doesn't small business have enough to worry about. Gender neutral restrooms are not even on the list. How about worrying about paying for health care, the increase in the minimum wage, getting business in the door. City council should be worrying about making sure everyone doing business in the city has a business license to collect revenue.
Gender neutral should be required on new construction and remodeling.
Its a non issue with only one restroom.
Gender neutral single use bathrooms we don't see as a problem. For multi-use bathrooms there may be a potential for issues if a minor male is alone and an unknown adult female is in the same restroom. Or vice a versa. We had this discussion with our grandson and this is his opinion as well.
We have an office and no customers coming into our office. My office is also in Palm Desert not Cathedral City.
I would consider only if it was a one stall restroom with a lock on it.

This issue is of no interest to me. All of my 145 spaces have one bathroom and anyone can use them no matter if they are - male/female or a combination of the 2.

There is such a small portion of the population that requires this need. % wise, our governments time should be spent on other more important needs that benefit the large population.

This survey does not take into consideration the many small business's like mine. I have one restroom and therefore is Gender Neutral.

Honestly, guys don't care but there would need to be one bathroom dedicated to women only. Face it, not all men have the best aim.

I do not own a business

This is for City Hall bathrooms.

8&9 are the same question
8 & 9 same question?

The carts belong to the businesses...take care of your own stuff it is not the city's responsibility.

Question 8 and 9 are the same.

Residents should not absorb these cost. Cost should fall upon the store the carts belong to. Large stores don't bother because its more cost efficient to replace the missing carts. If the City chooses to pick up the carts then possible recoup cost by reselling or recycling.

Although my office is in Palm Desert, I believe there should be a cart management program throughout the Coachella Valley.

Questions 8 and 9 are the same.

The shopping carts are a nuisance for businesses in Cathedral City that have them left on their property by homeless people. I have been fighting this for 20 years in Cathedral City at MY Expense - taking them back to the shopping centers because they WILL NOT pick them up when they are called.

Unfortunately, our city has people that are poor and can't afford cars and taking the carts are the only way they can get home with their supplies. Additionally, the city does not police the homeless for their theft as well. Businesses should not be held solely responsible for these issues.

It already costs the businesses money when they lose shopping carts. I believe it's unfair for them to pay twice.

Again, it appears this survey should be sent to large businesses.

I would assume this survey will fall on deaf ears from the business community, as it does not apply to my business.

Carts cost a business quite a bit of money. That cost should be incentive enough.

we do not have Shopping Carts for city hall.

My business is not inside the city limits, so cannot comment on financial ramifications of cart management
